to bars and things like that. They come and they go. Owners come and go. Thank goodness we have Kyle and James, Guy and Richard, and Jeff and Cory. They are the ones holding the gay community in Baton Rouge together. I congratulate them and wish them more years and years of success. Red Stick would not be the same without them.

The Name of the Game

Friendship is the name of the game when it comes to having fun - past, present, and future. What would I ever do without my Colla boy or BC Boy? And there is also my good old buddy TTT, and also Little John, who is so happy with his Phil. Kevin is my travel companion. Sam is my theater companion. Danny is my flower buddy, but he is also a friend who has done so much for me. It may not be what you think, but a kind word or a trust between individuals is something very rare. I have to add Cass to this list too. Gerry is my special friend who I love to dine with, and it is Luther who completes this triangle.

Some of these people I have known for years. Others are relatively new when it comes to counting years, but the bottom line is that there is a comfort zone here that makes it what it is - a good connection, a lasting friendship. This is what everyone should have.

Sometimes this happens with neighbors, and a good example of trust and friendship can be attributed to Robert and Brandon. It's a matter of knowing someone is there if you need them. Josie, Claudette, and Debbie are nearby as is David and the doctor. Robert is also very close around the corner, and Jeannie is just a phone call or email away - sometimes just a bar away. And I cherish the day that Joseph walked into my life. I remember it quite well. Do you, sweetie? Just think about where you would be if you had to move elsewhere. You would have to start all over again - new friends, new relationships, new neighbors. Maybe I just like continuity. Don't you?

You can't really leave out friends in other areas, but then again, the distance is not always in your favor. I think the internet has improved this a lot. Now I don't have to go to Ft. Lauderdale to see Eddie or Farmer Brown (I love that title!). John is just over there in California, and Mark and John are in New Orleans. The Crescent City is loaded with my friends - and probably your friends too - like Mina, Kevin, Barry, Tommy, Rip, Marsha, Toni, George, Danny, Ernie, and so many others. Just thinking of these friendships is a call to hurry back for a visit.

The Name, The Name

Remember that TV series where the little guy exclaimed "Da Plane, Da Plane?" Well that definitely applies to people. Names can mean a lot, and when you know a friend with a beautiful name, it is a special thing indeed.

Take Colla, for instance. This youngster is just one of the most precious friends anyone could possibly have. I have known him for so many years, yet it seems as if it was only yesterday. Even though I don't see him as much anymore, he still remains close in memory and in e-mails or reports from friends. Colla is so gorgeous - head to toe and all points in between, especially between. Goodness! Be still my heart! Top to bottom, he is just a magnificent hunk of manhood. I really love this one.

Mina is another name that pops into my mind. I don't know why, but I have always had so much respect for this sweetheart. Maybe she is a rogue. I like that word. It is a positive way of saying how unique one can be, and I just want you to know that Mina is a very unique and wonderful friend. She is a good example of one that is not always with you, but yet you know she is near whether it is with you at the time or in another city. She is just a very special human being.

Sometimes friends come in another way. Hobbies, work places, and even restaurants can bring you into contact with permanent relationships. In the past, I have found that Mardi Gras krewes provided me with exceptional and beautiful friendships. Danny's name comes forth immediately. I suppose that is how I got to know him although I believe that I may have first met him at Hibiscus Bookstore. Whichever it was, the friendship has grown, and with that friendship, I can claim a friend with a loving and caring heart. Danny is just a beautiful human being, and I love him dearly.

I think it was also a Mardi Gras connection that caused me to become so close to another wonderful friend. Kenny is just the best out there. I think he is just about the most genuine guy I know when it comes to trust and sincerity. He is also a fun guy to be around, and you can tell that he is an individual who loves life and likes to share this love with others. He appears to be in charge without taking charge. He is definitely a leader, and he has many followers. Those who try to duplicate him just fall away immediately. In other words, he is a guy who simply stands tall and commands your respect.

Friendships come in many packages, but there are some that stand alone or at least at the top of the heap. You know who these people are. They are what you can feel are forever. There are times when you might feel betrayed or misled, but there are reasons for these actions. Where the fault lies could be with either party, but to nurture a friendship, you have to be able to give and take, like in a marriage or a great relationship. Best friends can be partners or individuals who just simply crave each other's company, whether sexual or just platonic. It is a matter of being together and enjoying the moment.

In thinking back, one can always recall moments in time where a loss is more than one can bear. The end of the friendship could have been sudden or it could have ended slowly over a period of time. I can only speak for myself here because this is an individual reaction. All I can tell you is that I am always thinking of Leonard. He was my friend - one of a kind, and a loving individual, not only to me but to everyone. Being thoughtful and caring just came naturally for him. One day he was here. Then he was gone. That's what memories are for - to allow you to hold onto the beauty of life and all the joys that come along. I hope all the friendships in your life are as wonderful as those in mine. We pass this way only once. Make the most of it. Enjoy your friends.
